

the two-party system HAS FAILED

Will you continue to lend your trust to the party system of selection?

From their inception, parties are driven by a lust for power. As Daniel Webster said, "In every generation, there are those who want to rule well - but they mean to rule. They promise to be good masters - but they mean to be masters." Can they be trusted, or would you rather place your trust in "We the People," and a Republican form of government?

// In questions of power, let no more be heard of confidence in man, but bind him down from mischief by the chains of the Constitution. //

THOMAS JEFFERSON

The US Constitution is the "Supreme Law of the Land," yet most of our representatives show no allegiance to it.

// There is nothing which I dread so much as a division of the republic into two great parties, each arranged under its leader, and concerting measures in opposition to each other. This, in my humble apprehension, is to be dreaded as the greatest political evil under our Constitution. //

JOHN ADAMS

What is the PEOPPL Process?

Simply, People Electing Only Principled Leaders (PEOPL) is a process which will allow “We the People” to elect trusted representatives without the influence of money or the power-seeking passions of human nature.

In his farewell address George Washington warned against the “...baneful [harmful or poisonous] effects of the spirit of party...” This is because the spirit of party takes away the voice of “We the People.”

Political parties — or groups of people seeking power — put forward their candidates. The final selection of candidates stem from these groups of people. Thus the few select from the “Long List” while the many select from the “Short List.”

To make matters worse, the two dominant parties in the U.S. are supported with billions of dollars from a tsunami of money and supporting political infrastructure. These include rich benefactors, special interest groups, media propaganda, and entire philosophical establishments – colleges, universities, churches and large “social justice” organizations such as the ACLU and the Southern Poverty Law Center.

This is bad principle, and the people have been deceived into cooperating.

HERE IS GOOD PRINCIPLE

Good principle is: ask honest and wise people to run for office. Let the many select from the “Long List”.

As the late Neil A. Maxwell mentioned: “It is all so much more than going into the little voting booth and being sixty-second citizens... In electoral ecology, there is a greater impact and influence at the front end of the process than in the voting booth, as sacred and special as the latter is.” Insights from My Life, 1976

Principled, honest and wise men and women should be sought out, instead of settling for representatives whose main agenda is re-election through slick talk, endless promises and influence peddling.

Good principle is to stop voting for the lesser of two evils and to nominate “PEOPL” who will defend freedom and independence at all costs.

People Electing Only Principled Leaders is a PROCESS that ALL OF US can be involved in, irrespective of party or affiliation, because it focuses on Attaining Independence Through our Timeless Constitution!

The image below shows five overlapping circles, which represent differing political views and strategies. Inside the circles is the common voice of the people. The common voice should always agree with the Constitution, the Bill of Rights and the intent of the Declaration of Independence. Without this common ground, we cannot retain our Liberty.
